John Y Lee, Epstein Mark : Advances in Management Accounting: 22 before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Advances in Management Accounting: 22:

Featured in Volume 22 of Advances in Management Accounting are articles on: The Effect of Personality Traits and Fairness on Honesty in Managerial Reporting; The Impact of Firm Size on the Productivity of Resources; Transfer of Performance Measurement System Innovations Across Economic Sectors; Target Costing and Product and Production Interdependencies; Cost Accounting, Simulation, and Post-Structuralist Understanding; Input-Based Performance

Evaluation, Incentive Intensity, and Proactive Work Behavior; Normative and Instrumental commitments on Budgetary Slack Creation; The Adoption of Lean Operations and Lean Accounting; and Governance in the Hospital Sector. Researchers in both practice and academe, as well as libraries, would be interested in the articles featured in the AIMA.

Epstein (Rice U.) and Lee (Pace U.) nine papers in this 22nd volume of the applied research series Advances in Management Accounting. Topics addressed by the papers include: the impact of firm size on the productivity of resources; transfer of performance measurement system innovations across economic sectors; the effect of personality traits and fairness on honesty in managerial reporting; the adoption of lean operations and lean accounting on the profitability and cash flows of publicly traded companies; governance and management accounting in the case of board governance in Ontario's hospital sector; target costing in the presence of product and production interdependencies; a post-structuralist understanding of cost accounting and simulation; input-based performance evaluation, incentive intensity, and proactive work behavior; and an experimental examination of the combined effects of normative and instrumental commitments on budgetary slack creation.
